

Virtual Offices, Flexible Working, Hot Desks

Virtual Office Services from Bowman House offer your business the benefits of creating a professional image with a business address, mail handling and access to meeting space and hot desks on a cost effective and flexible basis. There are times when having a professional business address and an established location for meetings can be essential to the success of any organisation.

Flexibility helps to keep overheads to a minimum, and being able to pay for premises and facilities only as and when you need them can be an attractive proposition. If you want to use an office periodically or would enjoy the occasional stimulus or change of environment to work from the business centre on an ad hoc basis, then one of our flexible working options in addition to the virtual office package may be of interest to you.

As your business grows or if needs change then a transition from virtual to serviced office can be smoothly and easily made, and vice-versa. Bowman House is responsive and flexible to your business needs.
